What a BTEC course is like?

BTECs are high quality, hands-on qualifications grounded in the real world of work.

BTECs are all about learning by doing and that means BTEC students put what they learn into practice straight away. Throughout the course, they work on a series of assignments set in real-life scenarios, developing the practical knowledge and skills employers and universities are looking for.

It's so much more than just a certificate – BTEC-qualified students will keep applying what they learn on their BTEC course as they progress to university or a job – and throughout their future career.

My BTEC has made me be more productive and manage my time a lot better.

Where can you study a BTEC?

BTEC courses are available in schools, colleges and universities across a range of subjects including art and design, business, healthcare engineering, IT, performing arts, service industries, land-based, sport, and science.

BTECs are a flexible option – you can choose to study a BTEC alongside academic qualifications like GCSE or A level, or as a full- or part-time course at college or university.

More employers and Higher Education institutions than ever before are choosing BTEC-qualified candidates.

Want to join them?
